Zagreb Saxophone Quartet

The Zagreb Saxophone Quartet has gained an international reputation, having performed throughout Europe, Canada, and the USA, including appearances with some of the foremost European orchestras. The members of the ZSQ are all graduates of the Zagreb Academy of Music, where they studied with Josip Nochta. They have produced several CD's, their most recent, Tsunagari, in collaboration with Eugene Rousseau. They have presented highly-successful concerts at the University of Minnesota in 2002, at the World Saxophone Congress in 2003 and, most recently, during their 2004 tour, which included performances at the Interlochen Arts Academy and New York's Carnegie Hall. Their vast repertoire includes original music for saxophone, as well as numerous transcriptions.
